

X Financial Announces Receipt of NYSE Non-compliance Letter Regarding ADS Trading Price

SHENZHEN, China, May 28, 2020 /PRNewswire/ -- X Financial (NYSE: XYF) (the "Company" or "we"), a leading technology-driven personal finance company in China,, today announced that it has received a letter from the New York Stock Exchange (the "NYSE") dated April 28, 2020, notifying X Financial that (i) it is below compliance standards due to the trading price of X Financial's American depositary shares (the "ADSs") and (ii) it will have six months from July 1, 2020 to cure the minimum share price standard.

Pursuant to NYSE rule 802.01C, a company will be considered to be below compliance standards if the average closing price of a security as reported on the consolidated tape is less than $1.00 over a consecutive 30 trading-day period. Once notified, the company must bring its share price and average share price back above $1.00 by six months following receipt of the notification. The company can regain compliance at any time during the six-month cure period if on the last trading day of any calendar month during the cure period the company has a closing share price of at least $1.00 and an average closing share price of at least $1.00 over the 30 trading-day period ending on the last trading day of that month. In the event that at the expiration of the six-month cure period, both a $1.00 closing share price on the last trading day of the cure period and a $1.00 average closing share price over the 30 trading-day period ending on the last trading day of the cure period are not attained, the NYSE will commence suspension and delisting procedures.

To address this issue, X Financial intends to monitor the market conditions of its listed securities and is still considering its options.
